The Belleair Country Club, as a part of the renovation of their West Course, removed hundreds of trees. Did they have permission to do so? An individual resident of Belleair is required to obtain permission, and if granted it is hoped that he will replace with another tree. The town treasures its trees. Is the BCC required to replace at least some of the trees they removed ( many were live oaks) ? The minimum they should replace is in the areas where town roads are adjacent to the course. Those areas are now bare of trees making the course dangerous with stray golf and a distraction to drivers passing by. Are they going to be held accountable?

The Pelican Golf Course is a perfect example of how the renovation should be done. Large numbers of trees and shrubs were planted and the perimeter of the course has no distractions. It is an asset to our town.

I hope the town is going to hold the BCC accountable. Otherwise we have lost substantial beauty in our town and grossly compromised our regulations and our designation as " Tree City USA ".
